DESCRIPTION

2024 - 30'' x 40'' oil on canvas, custom framed in Lindwood.

Suki embodies a quiet yet undeniable presence. Despite its minimalist palette, the piece draws the viewer in with the unique texture of Suki's skin, defined by purposeful brushstrokes. Her gaze, combined with the subtle yet powerful backdrop, resonates long after you leave the piece.

This artwork honors the strength of our foremothers-the generations of women who lived through hardship, sacrifice, and resilience. The black lines in the background symbolize this lineage, while the red line above Suki's head represents luck, joy, and protection-a symbol deeply rooted in Asian culture. Much like a red door in Feng Shui, it brings positive energy to the piece.

Suki is a celebration of silent matriarchy, reflecting the unspoken strength that has supported us all. It invites viewers to connect with their own personal journeys and acknowledge the resilience of those who came before them, while celebrating the beauty of heritage and strength.
